Corona virus could impact the supply chain

Dear Customers,

The impacts of the Corona virus are now being felt worldwide. Companies like us that procure raw materials from China have to expect that supply chains may no longer work seamlessly.

Currently our warehouses are well-stocked. But we wanted to write to you to inform you that over the coming weeks, we may face shortages too. Unfortunately, information from China is scarce, making it difficult to estimate whether supply shortages will actually materialise.

We will be taking all action available to us over the coming weeks to avoid any interruptions to our supply chain.

If you have any questions, please do get in touch with us.

Yours faithfully,

Christopher Haas
Managing Director
